

How many people have stood here and wondered

Looking up, up, up but not at all intimidated?

How high do they go?

How far do they reach?

How long have they been standing here?

How many people have stood here and wondered

Speechless at the stunning beauty?

White-tipped peaks, endless trees,

Am I just a speck to these huge monuments?

What I thought was big now doesn't seem so

How many people have stood here and wondered

Dazzled by their looming size

How much have they seen?

What have they been through?

Things will keep changing,

But I will always remember

The beauty of these dazzling mountains.
