

A Robin's Resilience

In a garden fair and bright,
A robin soaring in delight,
Through the sky with grace and ease,
Amidst the gentle rustling trees.

But fate took a cruel turn that day,
As into a window, it found its way,
..A sudden crash, a shattered flight,
Yet still, it battled back to light.

With feathers ruffled, heart awry,
The robin stood up to try,
Fighting through the pain and fear,
Its spirit shining bright and clear.

Bravery in those tiny eyes,
Reflecting blue and cloudy skies,
A soul that refused to yield or break,
Choosing life for beauty's sake.

Compassion from all around did flow,
Hands reaching to help it grow,
Whispers of empathy in the breeze,
Guiding it back to the trees.

The animals watched in awe that day,

As the robin took flight in an adventurous way,
A tale of resilience and might so true,
Showing us all what beauty can do.
