

The Poet
By Marie Njoroge

Always the poet, but never the poem

Always the houseguest, but never the home

Never the subject, and never the muse

Never the one to hear "it's about you"

Always the dreamer, but never the dream

Always observant, but never feel seen

Never the option that someone will choose

Maybe one day I'll be loved like I do